The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo

The package at the Dolder Grand to accompany the movie

Just over a year ago, scenes of the Hollywood film "The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo" were shot at the Dolder Grand in Zurich. To mark the occasion of the film's release on 12 January 2012 in Switzerland, the City Resort is offering a special package, which can also be booked in a luxury version in the Masina Suite.

A glimpse of the Dolder Grand can be had in the trailer of "The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo". Scenes show the driveway, the reception and the Masina Suite, one of the luxury hotel's four Top Suites. Director David Fincher and his crew of 60 people were on location at the beginning of December 2010, together with 40 extras. Managing Director Thomas Schmid comments: "We are delighted that our hotel features this prominently in a cine film, and the receptionist in the film actually says, 'Welcome to the Dolder Grand'."

Package for cinema fans

From 12 January 2012, the Dolder Grand is offering a package to accompany the film. It consists of two nights, a dinner in the Garden Restaurant, the cinema ticket including limousine transfer from the Hotel and back, a Signature Drink in the bar and the book by Stieg Larsson. Cinema fans can book the package from CHF 1,650.00 for two persons, with the opportunity to view the Masina Suite, if available. With "The Original", the Dolder Grand offers the same package in a luxury version for guests who prefer to stay in the Masina Suite. This package, available at a special price of CHF 9,910.00 for two persons, can also be booked for four persons, as the Masina Suite has two bedrooms. But this is not the only feature that adds a touch of cinematic glamour to the Top Suite
